Testimonials

Engaging with CDI has been a very beneficial decision for LensVector. As a provider of disruptive technology, that is part of a greater ecosystem, it was important to have a partner that can provide a complete solution for our mutual customers. CDI's ability to engage with a customer on a technical level during the design process and to support the implementation of a whole product solution was critical to our success.

Component Distributors has proven to be a go-to distributor as their dedication to customers support goes beyond the traditional vendor / disty relationship. CDI has demonstrated that they can be one of our first lines of field support, product knowledge, and product applications allowing our customers to get our products working faster in their solutions.

To My Purchasing Team - As I was playing Silicon Detective on a rather fun customer package, a lead took me to CDI, where I met Joyce. She provided an extraordinary level of customer service and is a pleasure to work with. I encourage you to give her line card a glance and try her out on a few bid to buys.
